

ABSTRACT

A system for determining S-parameters of a network includes an S-parameter calculator that computes the S-parameters of the network based on waveform parameters determined through single port measurements at each of plural ports of the network.

5